

Level 3 Award in Food Safety Supervision for Retail

Sample Examination Questions

-
- 1 If you suspect that something you have sold may have caused food poisoning, which one of the following actions should you take?
- A Continue to sell the remaining stock until the manager completes an investigation
 - B Destroy all suspect stock and clean and disinfect the storage area
 - C Remove the remaining stock from sale and hold it until cleared by the enforcement officer
 - D Continue to sell the products until an enforcement officer completes an investigation

-
- 2 It is an offence to sell food that:
- A has an additive or preservative added
 - B has passed its 'best-before' date
 - C has been thawed and refrozen
 - D has passed its 'use-by' date

-
- 3 A supervisor can best encourage staff to maintain high personal hygiene standards by:
- A changing procedures on a daily basis
 - B leading by example
 - C maintaining training records
 - D imposing hygiene policies

-
- 4 When stored food is found with gnawed packaging, what is the first course of action?
- A Put spoiled food into new packaging
 - B Check when the last pest control audit was undertaken
 - C Remove and isolate the spoiled food
 - D Send the spoiled food back to the supplier

-
- 5 Which metal is most likely to cause food poisoning?
- A Stainless steel
 - B Lead
 - C Gold leaf
 - D Aluminium

-
- 6 Disinfection helps to:
- A prevent bacterial spores from regenerating
 - B stop pest infestations
 - C reduce bacteria to safe levels
 - D enhance product quality

Chartered
Institute of Environmental Health

Training Division
Chartered Institute of Environmental Health
Chadwick Court, 15 Hatfields, London SE1 8DJ
Telephone 020 7827 5800 Training Division (Option 1)
Email customersupport@cieh.org Web www.cieh.org/training

© CIEH, 2007
Printed January 2007